Parson, delicate Parson, How did you like the Game. In this you have not acted well, alas, you are much to blame: That such a man should kiss and tell, O that is a burning shame; If you had been wise, you had let her alone, And then your grand folly had never been known, But now far and near it is scattered and blown O Parson, delicate Parson, Never do so no more. YOUNG CORYDON 1700 A Broadside Song with music; set by Jeremiah Clarke. Young Corydon and Phillis Sat in a lovely Grove, Contriving Crowns of Lilies, Repeating Toys of Love--But Es they were a playing, She ogled to the Swain, It saved her plainly saying, Let's kiss to ease our Pain. A thousand times he kissed her, Laying her on the Green; But as he farther pressed her, A...
